NYCWFF '25

We're excited that next month we'll be attending and covering this year's Food Network New York City Wine & Food Festival presented by Invesco QQQ from Oct 15 - 19th which will be held in their brand new home at The Seaport! It's an event we enjoy covering as we connect with a number of our favorite chefs who have been previous covers, inbooks, etc. over the past few years. We love being able to enjoy a number of restaurants that are local to this city as well as giving us tastes from other eateries as well. It's about the love of the community coming together from TV personalities, cookbook authors, and more.

To get an idea of what it's like being at the NYCWFF, you can see our coverage from last year (we've included a few of our favorite moments from last year here). We're looking forward to tasting a number of great dishes, connecting with our favorite chefs, and a number of surprises along the way.

There are a number of events throughout the 5 days of this food festival! We're excited that we will be attending A Taste of the Tin Building: A Culinary Journey hosted by Jean-Georges Vongerichten and Gregory Gourdet, Asian Night Market hosted by Padma Lakshmi and Jean-Georges Vongerichten, The Agave Experience: Fine Tequila, Mezcal and Mexican Flavors hosted by Brie Larson and Courtney McBroom, FoodieCon, and Sunday Supper presented by Peroni hosted by "The Pasta Queen" Nadia Caterina Munno and Lil Mo Mozzarella.

Next month, in our OCT ISSUE #118, we will recap this event as well as share interviews that we did during this time as well!
